Historical Sketch

The Very Reverend
EDWARD A. SORIN, C.S.C.
Founder of Saint Edward's
1878

Saint Edward's was founded in 1878 by the Very Reverend Edward A. Sorin, C.S.C., thirty-six years after he had instituted the University of Notre Dame near South Bend, Indiana. In 1871 Father Sorin came to Texas in the interests of the Congregation of Holy Cross and was struck by the singular beauty of the country around Austin. He determined to build a school south of the Capital City. In 1874 Mrs. Mary Doyle deeded Father Sorin three hundred and ninety-four acres overlooking the wide Colorado River Valley.

The Reverend John R. Louth, C.S.C., the first president, opened the school in the Doyle homestead in 1878. Boarding students were enrolled in 1881. A few years later Father Sorin decided that the school should be closer to the San Antonio highway. He purchased a long plateau extending westward from the school to the San Antonio road. He moved the original buildings and erected new ones on the present location of the institution. Father Sorin's foresight thus bequeathed the Military Academy with a beautiful campus, adequate drill fields, athletic grounds, and extensive terrain for military maneuvers of almost five hundred acres.

The Reverend Peter J. Hurth, C.S.C., president from 1886 to 1895, did much to increase the enrollment. During his administration the Academy acquired a statewide reputation for giving its students a thorough education. Later Father Hurth was consecrated Archbishop.

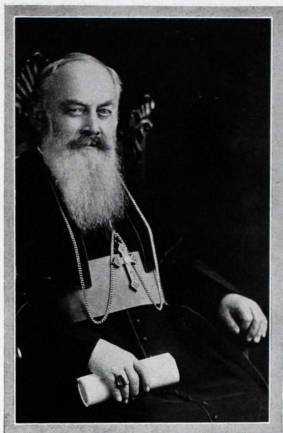

In the Spring of 1903 the original Administration Building burned to the ground. Work began immediately on a new building which was completed in time for the opening of school in September. Holy Cross Hall was built the same year. Chemistry Hall and Sorin Hall were constructed in 1927. The infirmary was erected in 1933.

The military traditions of the Academy began in 1891 when three companies of the Hurth Rifles were organized. During the Spanish-American War Military Science and Tactics were taught. Several companies of Cadets were trained and drilled during World War I, but it was not until 1941 that the Military Academy was founded. In September of that year a voluntary Cadet Corps was organized. The next year Military training became compulsory for all high school students. The following year this compulsory Military training was extended to the College.

Although the Academy, because of the war's conscription of college-age men, is now devoted almost entirely to high school work, for eighteen years it has been a University. In 1921 the Reverend Matthew Schumacher, C.S.C., introduced college courses into the institution. From that year until 1925 he added a year of college work each Fall so that the school became a complete senior college which was granted a charter as a University. The first college class was graduated in 1925.

Father Schumacher's successor, the Reverend Joseph Burke, C.S.C., added more courses to the curriculum, first giving a wider variety to the already established program and then introducing classes in engineering, science, and journalism. The school continued as a senior college until 1943 when World War II forced the withdrawal of all students except those in the first year of college.

On October 13, 1943, the Military Academy of Saint Edward's University under the direction of the Reverend William M. Robinson, C.S.C., President, became a member of the Texas State Guard and the Third Training and Research Unit was established on the campus. In the Fall of 1944 the Academy became a 55-C school under the National Defense Act, and was received into the Eighth Service Command.

A Cadet Year Passes in Review

When the Cadets returned to school they learned that Father Jones, who had been Adjutant at the Academy, had joined the Army's Chaplain Corps; that Line Officer Brother Fergus had been transferred to the University of Portland (Portland, Oregon); and that Brother Silverius had received his commission as a Captain in the Texas State Guard and had been appointed the new Adjutant. The new armory-gym was under construction. Major R. L. Roberts approved the Academy as a 55-C school. Chris Rice went to a circus. The Cadets assisted the State Highway Department in making a car census of Austin.

Cadets Visit Bergstrom Field

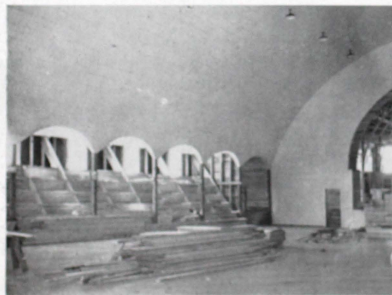

On their visit to Bergstrom Field (Transport Ferry Command) the Cadets learned from Captain George H. Wood (Chaplain of the Air Force) how an Army Chapel was constructed so that it could be conveniently used by Catholics, Christians, and Hebrews. Chaplain Wood explained how each soldier arriving on the Base was "processed" by the chapel staff so that an accurate record of his religious affiliations could be kept. The Cadets also visited the PX (Post Exchange) to learn how much it added to the comfort of army life. They then proceeded to the flying field (where no pictures could be taken) to enjoy an hour of examining the many types of planes. They were impressed by the magnitude of the field and the efficiency with which the essential work was performed. Visitations of this nature give them practical knowledge which can be gained in no other manner.

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY

AUSTIN, TEXAS

Conducted by

Sisters of the Holy Cross

Saint Mary's Academy is a select school for resident and day students. It is conducted by the Sisters of the Holy Cross whose Mother House is at Saint Mary's of the Immaculate Conception, Notre Dame, Indiana. The Congregation of the Sisters of Holy Cross was founded at Le Mans, France in 1841. This Congregation has, therefore, a long line of traditions and a wealth of practical experience in the field of education.

Saint Mary's Academy, located on the site of the official residence of Mirabeau B. Lamar, President of the Republic of Texas between 1838 and 1841, was founded in Austin in 1874 and chartered in 1879. Her position in the field of education in the Southwest is not only a distinct source of pride to her many graduates but a positive advantage to them as well.

The aim of any school should be complete education, the development of body and mind and soul. To this end, Saint Mary's Academy offers a well balanced curriculum which provides students with the opportunity to prepare for the practical requirements of life and to develop the qualities of gracious and wholesome womanhood.
