

the tower

the next 180 pages will be most of the year.
there will be
victory and defeat,
good times
and bad.
we will be reminded of who we were in the light of what we have become.

austin, texas 1968.
an epitaph,
a landmark,
a source
of something new,
a reminder
of something very old.
a few years of our lives wrapped up in a neat package -- a bundle of memories
never to be sold
on the open market.

we are but brief shadows
in the st. edward's sun, mere clouds
in an academic atmosphere.
luckily,
we may be remembered
for a time
for we may have shed some life giving rain.
we may have helped
st. ed's grow a little and to realize itself
a little.

st. ed's must be more than a two thousand dollar per year world.
what would we pay for the friends we meet for the things we see for the times we have?
we try to gain mastery
of ourselves
before some damned machine does it to us.
either we ask
who we are or

the computer tells us.
we take
or we are taken,
we give
or we are given,
we drive
or are driven.
and the million dollar question is:
who takes
and who is taken,
who gives
and who is given,
who drives
and who is driven —
and how?

PROCESSING SYSTEM

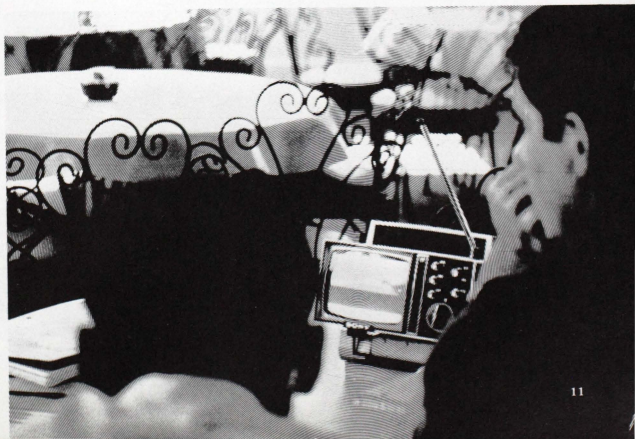

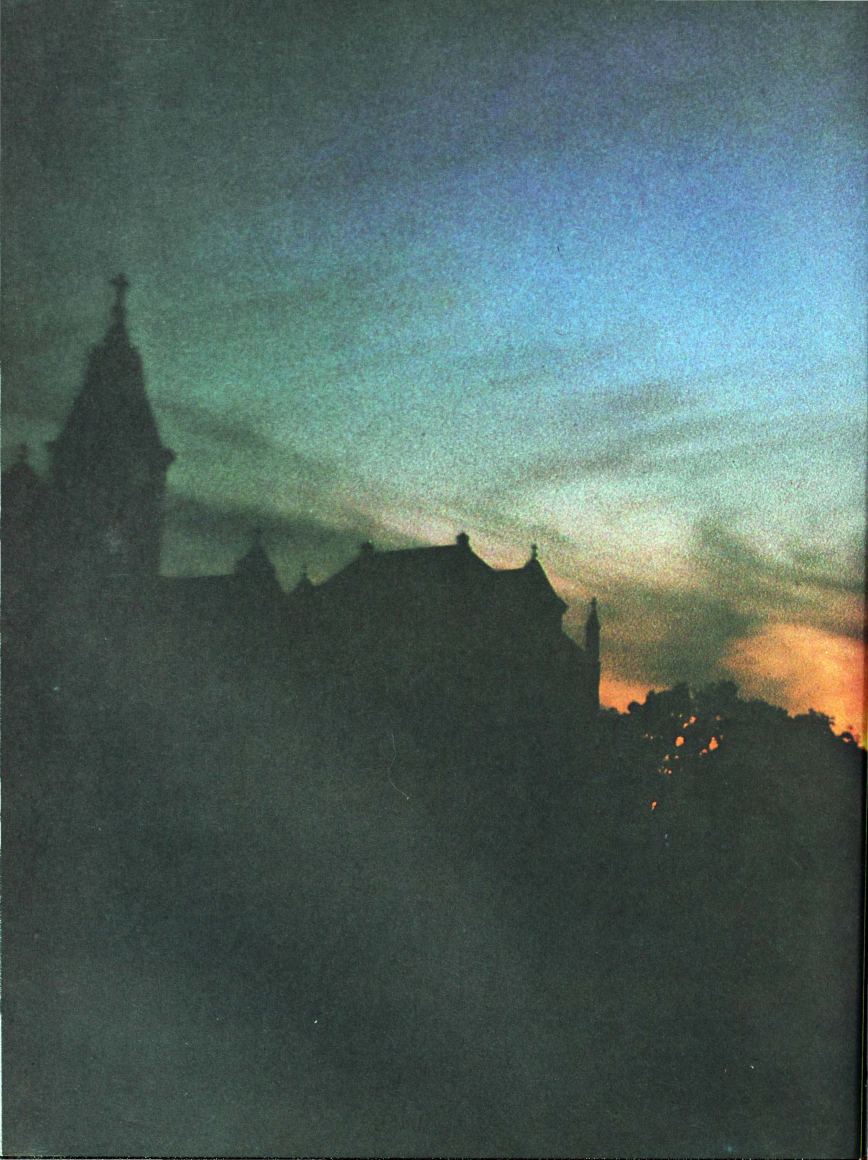

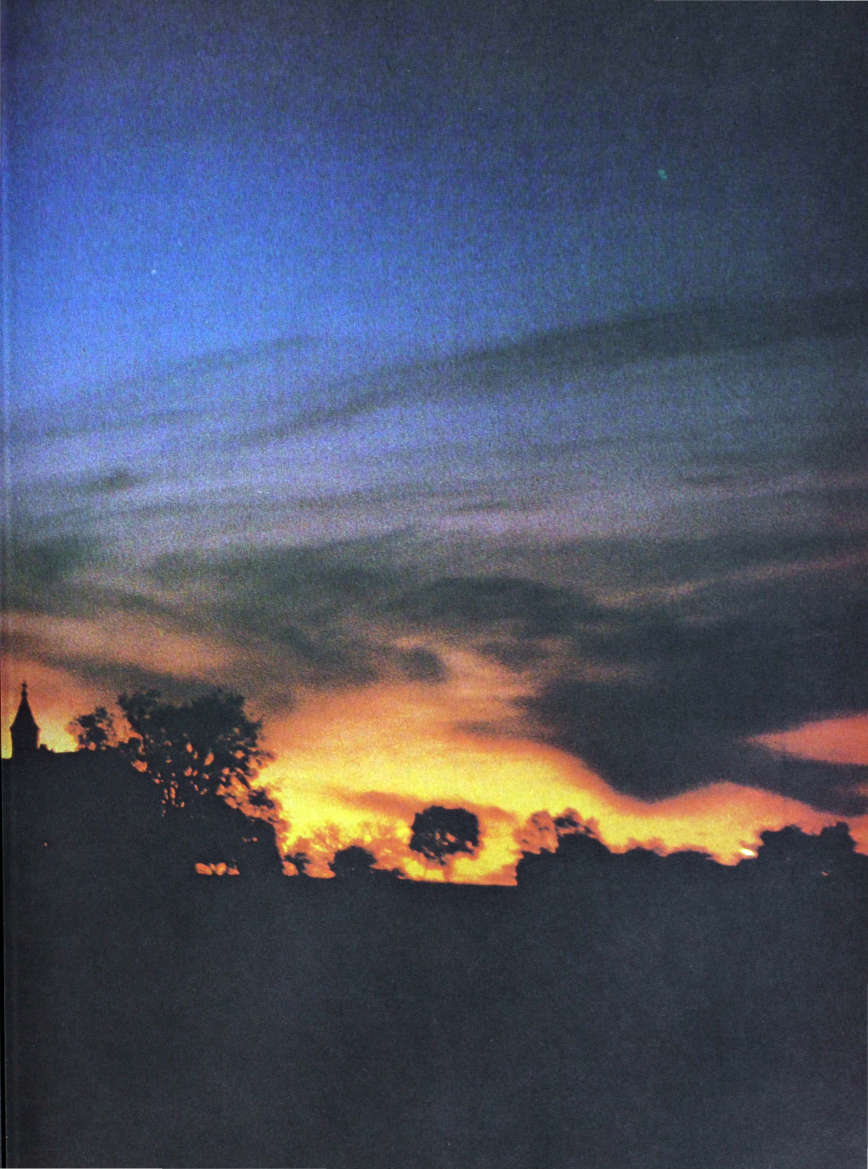

more is done here
than come and go.
we leave things
take things.
meet people
leave memories.
pay money
take knowledge.
we lose
and are lost
find
and are found.
win, lose and draw —
all at the same time.

"student life"

it is hard to understand how scared we were
those first few weeks,
but still we came,
determination over-riding fear, we brought with us
our parents' hopes
our hometown friends' admiration and our own desires.

we try to find our place (whatever that means, where ever that may happen to be) and we try to make something from the nothingness that surrounds us.

we can sit back now with the first year behind us, we laugh at how childish we were,
but if we look closely we see how immature we still are and how very, very much there is left undone.

st. ed's demands
only what we demand of ourselves.
with orientation
we get a rough idea
of the expectations
of university living.
but it is the flexibility of our own demands and expectations that is the key,
not only to university living, but to the entire social order.

WELCOME TO
St. Edwards / Maryhill
The Friendliest University
In The USA

...the land of a thousand dances...

we have sometimes wondered,
not only this year,
but in many past semesters,
"why doesn't sac do anything?"
at least a partial answer lies in the expression
from a current movie:
"what we have here is a failure to communicate."
sac serves its purpose;
it is an outlet for expression, it is a sounding board of ideas.

we tend to think of our elected officers as, somehow, perfected individuals who are, in all respects, dedicated to the entire student body.
it is true,
they are there to serve — but they are servants to a spirit, a fleeting shadow of student interest; they serve a student body which continually serves itself.
sac is not "them",
sac is "us".
if we can be strong
and loyal and responsible
to each other,
as well as to ourselves,
sac can be strong,
we will be stronger,
and this school will grow,
not merely exist.

it started with talented individuals and with a man —
bro. edwin reggio.
and with a fight song
and a group to play it.
this has been a year
that has seen the development of a permanent band;
and it will continue as long as there are dedicated individuals to direct it
and see it through a few more sour notes.

and this was also the year that saw the formation of the glee club
under the inspiration of stanley woodmansee.
they could sing together and they will sing even better, for there was a sense of perfection in everything they did.

capers

the campus capers proved not only that st. ed's has talented students, but that it can be put together and carried off by equally dedicated students — students who have taste, originality, and a hell of a lot of guts.

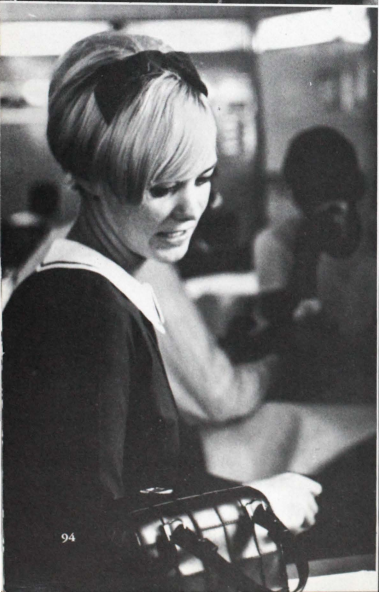

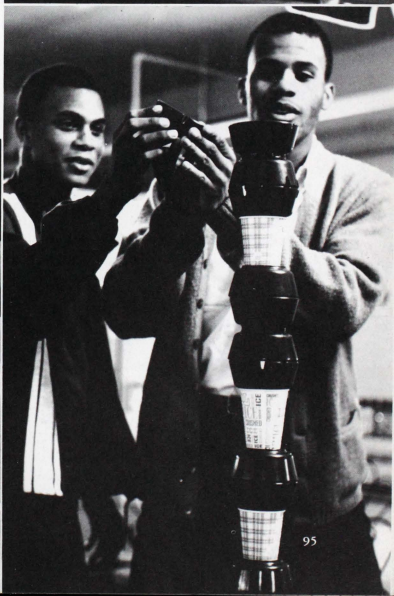

JOURNALS OF THE DAY

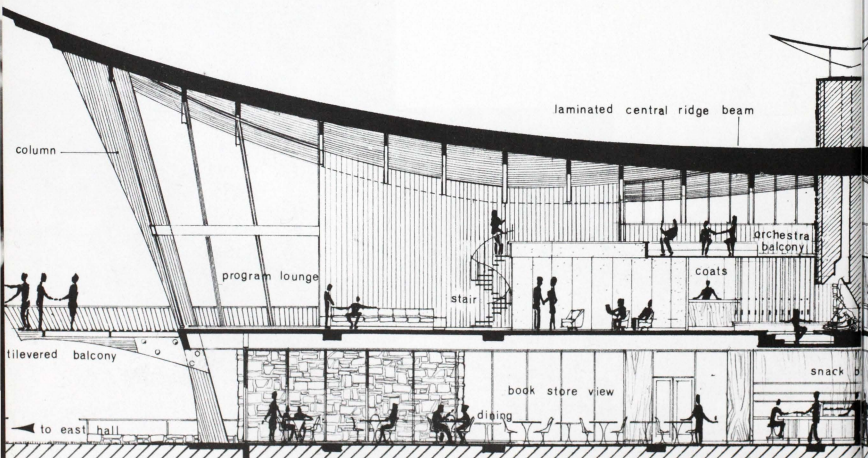

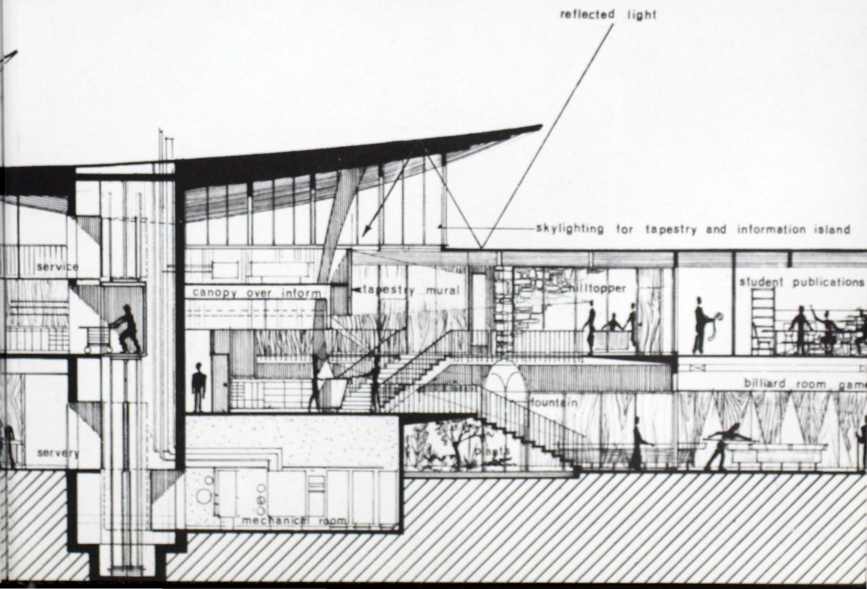

the student union
is inbetween
a dream and a reality.
this year has seen
a substitute —
for its purpose.
as a working model,
the temporary union
has been successful.
but the temporary union merely asks the question — a student union,
idealized on these two pages,
is the answer.

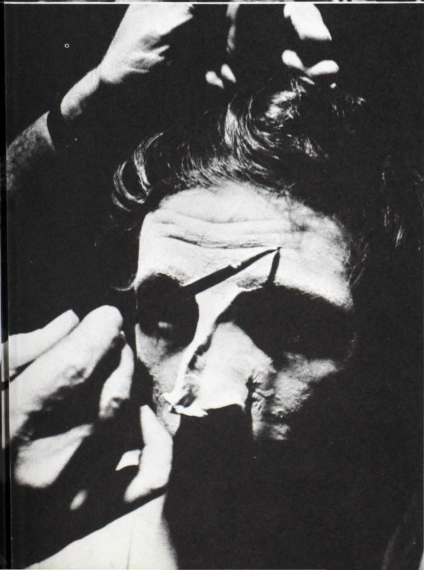

the stage
is the personification
of all that is not.
life is not a stage --
because the stage and everything surrounding it is false,
fake,
unreality at its finest.
the stage is escape,
and on it
we can be what we have always wanted to be.
we can be a hero,
forgetting a world where there are so few.

but,
the stage is also a platform for displaying possibilities, recreating the past,
interpreting the present,
or anticipating the future.

the death and trial of pope formosus, written by bro. joseph dispenza, directed by mr. ed mangum,
had, as its main point, that we are all
only men,
with weaknesses and with vices.
although not unique (many plays deal with man's weaknesses), this is what makes a play outstanding.
a universal theme constantly penetrating our senses helps us realize ourselves and the stage,
and the relationship
each has to the other.

you seniors
know st. ed's for what it is now—some of you have been here four years, some more, some less.
you have been accepted, rejected, picked up, put down, put on.
you've been made fools of and you've made fools of yourselves some of you will leave thanking god that you finally can;

and some will realize that they are not ready—some will leave thinking st. ed's is a dump, and there will be others who believe there is nothing finer.

there is no turning back now; you will either rise in your glory or wallow in your inadequacy.
the world waits for you with bared claws—
take it on
in all its brutality
it needs you

AUSTIN

some of a cheerleader's bruises don't show.

like when the team loses, or when they can't quite get the crowd behind them, or when a new cheer
isn't quite coordinated.
but most people deserve more credit than they receive,
and it is an understatement to say that our cheerleaders put on a good show.

some bright spots during a dismal season were mike canfield, the team's only senior-co-captain-leading scorer, who made second team all-conference and mikeseale, a junior, howie scott, a junior, and bob beck, a freshman who made honorable mention all-conference.

the track team has a strong outlook for the coming season with the return of some strong tracksters in captain, sabas zapata, dale lawrence, jim goeller and rich fairhurst.

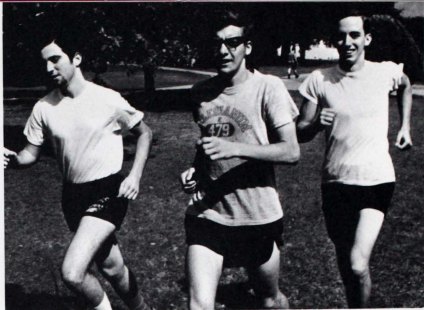

the freshman class has supplied a portion of the power in the field events with the presence of scott campbell who will handle these events in the company of sophomore al hillis.

the freshman class has also made a donation to the running aspect with dan clifford, bob anderson and bob george.

things are looking up for the track team.

the tennis team is again seeking another conference title. this year's talented squad is led by senior tom farrell. tom was a member of last year's team and will supply the experience. he is backed up by another veteran in bob murphy a junior, tom siefert a transfer student from florida and rich marroquin.

the up-coming season is one of anticipation. the toppers are led by seniors jim marik, bob trevino, kevin shevlin, and charlie kubelka. however, the big question is, can mikesseale carry the pitching staff through the conference games or will he receive much needed support from art torres, vince begatto, jack singleton, and larry carroll?

mrs. donna pesoli

a yearbook must live. it must not simply capture the year, it must put it on display. the year gone by must be seen in the perspective of a lifetime.

if you open the '68 tower 10 years from now, you should be able to read something new, not nostalgically relive a past too far gone— although nostalgia is sometimes the only means we have to see what we were.

chances are, if not lost in the shuffle from state to state or country to country, the '68 tower will suffer a fate unfortunate in the life of a yearbook— it will collect dust on an out-of-the-way bookshelf, or grow musty in a storage crate. the year gone by ends as just that.

but, while a monument to the past, a yearbook is not an obituary of a particular year. it must speak of the future; it must be, in some way, current and true to each year of our lives.

take this yearbook, then, read it, look it over, and remember st. ed's as it was; remember what you thought of yourself and of the future, and realize that it is, in most ways, you as only you can be.

also, remember what the yearbook didn't show— your own hopes and desires, your anxieties and frustrations; and measure and re-measure yourself, as you are, and as each year takes you further and further away...
