ST. EDWARD'S GOLDEN JUBILEE

JUNE OF 1931 brings to a close for St. Edward's a half century of faithful service in education. Now, at the end of the fiftieth year of its existence, former students, friends, and benefactors of St. Edward's gather to celebrate its Golden Jubilee. This auspicious occasion brings reputed orators who will heap praise upon the institution, famous preachers who will glorify its noble work, distinguished friends who will pride in its accomplishments, grateful students who will reverence its memory.

ALL OF THESE exalted feelings will continue to live long after the program is over, but the events that occasion them will grow faint with the passage of time. That this volume may serve to keep alive these cherished memories, that it may be a fitting remembrance of this momentous event, is the ardent wish of the staff of the Golden Jubilee Tower.

Foreword

The trials and hardships, the successes and accomplishments, that comprise the eventful history of St. Edward's from its humble founding fifty years ago until today, are portrayed both by word and by sketch in the Golden Jubilee Tower. The development of this theme has not interfered with, but rather it has inspired, the full and accurate presentation of the events and activities of the scholastic year. That this volume has accomplished its two-fold purpose, and that it may prove a perpetual treasure, is our sincere hope.

REV. MATTHEW SCHUMACHER

Dedication—

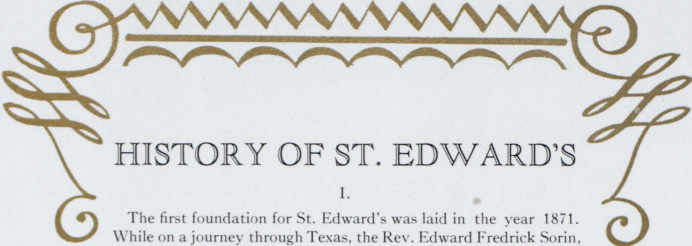

To those self-sacrificing men, who gave up home, family, and worldly pleasure to devote their lives to the education and training of youth, and have served St. Edward's as presidents through fire and storm, through prosperity and disaster, for the past half century, guiding the institution's destinies and winning for it a foremost place among the Catholic universities of the Southwest, this, the Golden Jubilee Tower, in humble appreciation of their unceasing efforts, is most graciously and respectfully dedicated.

HISTORY OF ST. EDWARD'S

I.

The first foundation for St. Edward's was laid in the year 1871. While on a journey through Texas, the Rev. Edward Fredrick Sorin, C. S. C., then Superior-General of the Congregation of Holy Cross, was impressed with the need and desirability of establishing a Catholic educational institution in the great Southwest. Accordingly, he purchased as a site one hundred acres of land three miles south of the state capitol with the intention of establishing there a University similar to the University of Notre Dame. The following year, Mrs. Mary Doyle, becoming deeply interested in the undertaking, strengthened the purpose by deeding to Father Sorin a tract of three hundred and ninety-eight acres of land, adjoining that already purchased, on the condition that he would build there a Catholic college.

It was in 1881, fifty years ago, that St. Edward's got its humble beginning. A small wooden building was erected on the Doyle homestead, about a mile east of the present site, and there St. Edward's began its long years of useful service in the field of education.

To the Rev. John Lauth, C. S. C., fell the task of serving the institution as first president. He was succeeded two years later by the Rev. Daniel J. Spillard, C. S. C., who in turn yielded the presidency in 1885 to the Rev. P. J. Franciscus, C. S. C. To the energy of these pioneers, aided by the untiring efforts of their subordinates, is due the success which enabled the small school to increase its facilities and extend its sphere of usefulness during the years that followed.

In the year 1872, Mrs. Mary Doyle generously deeded to Father Sorin 398 acres of land, adjoining 100 acres already purchased, as a site for a Catholic college similar to the University of Notre Dame. Nine years later a small wooden building was erected, and St. Edward's began its long years of useful service in the field of education.

TO THE CLASS OF 1931.

It has been your singular privilege to edit the Golden Jubilee annual of the University. I congratulate you on the taste and skill that you have shown in compiling this little volume.

Fifty years is a long time in the life of an individual. It is but a short span in the life of a University. Since it is the nature of an educational institution to be permanent, St. Edward's will remain to celebrate many jubilees.

For fifty years St. Edward's has served the cause of Christian education in Texas. Those who would follow after us will find inspiration in the record of accomplishment that you have left on the pages of this book.

HISTORY OF ST. EDWARD'S

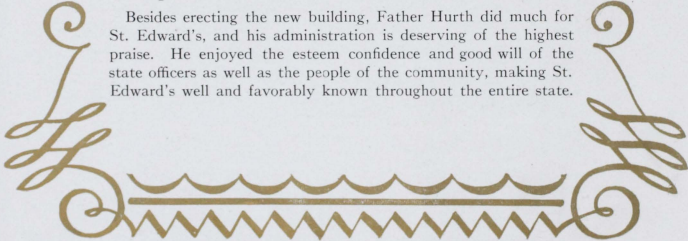

II.

Due to the splendid efforts of the early presidents, St. Edward's was soon able to take its first step toward higher education. In 1885, only four years after opening, a charter was obtained from the State of Texas granting St. Edward's the power of conferring the usual degrees in arts, sciences, and letters.

Under the able administration of the Rev. Peter J. Hurth, C. S. C., who assumed the presidency in 1886, the little school grew so rapidly that soon the original building, which had been deemed commodious enough for years to come, was overcrowded. Consequently, Father Hurth set out to erect a new building. A plateau at the edge of an oak grove, a mile west of the original location, was selected as a site. This position overlooks the city of Austin and is on a level with the Corinthian colonnade which surrounds the magnificent state capitol.

The building that was erected was a beautiful edifice of white limestone, four stories high, following Gothic lines. Two wings, at right angles to the body of the building, and a projecting tower for the main stairway, gave the general outline of the letter E. This building answered the needs of St. Edward's until the year 1903.

Besides erecting the new building, Father Hurth did much for St. Edward's, and his administration is deserving of the highest praise. He enjoyed the esteem confidence and good will of the state officers as well as the people of the community, making St. Edward's well and favorably known throughout the entire state.

So great was the progress of the little school that in 1885 it was granted a charter with power to confer degrees in arts, science, and letters. The enrollment, too, had grown so rapidly that three years later, under the able administration of Father Hurth, a beautiful edifice of white limestone was built to replace the original building.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Four years of college life are now only a memory for the Class of '31, which entered the class rooms and activities of the University eager to follow the paths promising to lead to the realization of many varied ambitions and hopes.

In recalling some of the class memories—memories which already are acquiring the almost sacred hue of age—one notices a marked depletion in the ranks. Some, less fortunate than others, were forced to abandon their pursuits at St. Edward's for various causes and reasons. Two, George Reynolds and Bernard Wunsch, both loved by their classmates, were called to an early death. Roland Blackwell in his senior year, after a record of brilliant achievement, was forced on account of sickness to leave the campus and his many friends and classmates.

Among more cheerful, though not less treasured, memories are to be found the records established through the efforts of those who have been fortunate enough to survive the vicissitudes of four years of college. In the classroom, first of all, the members of the graduating class of 1931 were prominent by reason of their excellence. In extra-curricula activities, too, the class was a leader. The Class of '31 contains the presidents and other officers of many of the leading organizations and clubs on the campus. Among its ranks are to be found the mainstays for four years of the University debating teams, the president of the Student Activities Council, the governing organization of the campus; the editor of the Echo, the student newspaper; the staff of the Golden Jubilee Tower, St. Edward's yearbook; the captains of the football team; a former captain of the basketball team; the most exemplary student; the most popular student; and also the best all-around athlete. In short, the records of every form of campus activity reveal the names of members of the Class of '31.

The year 1931 marks the Golden Jubilee of St. Edward's, terminating a fifty year period of leadership and achievement in Catholic education. It is fitting that the members of a class such as the Class of '31, should also close a successful period of their lives in the same year. Just as St. Edward's can now look back over a glorious past and forward to a promising future, so too can the members of the Class of '31 look back over a brilliant past and, armed with the knowledge and virtues acquired at St. Edward's, turn their faces to a brilliant and promising future.

The Golden Jubilee of St. Edward's and the graduation of the Class of '31 will soon become only treasured memories. May the year 1931 mark the beginning of another period in which each will add generously to the successes already so nobly begun.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

Ups and downs, tribulations and successes, mark the path of history that the Class of '32 has worn through the halls of the University. Sometimes during the three years the going was difficult, but the class always had men who could guide it along the proper course.

Sixty-five freshmen, eager to forget their high school ways and to fall into those of the collegian, gathered at St. Edward's in September, 1928. Though filled with school spirit, so liberally meted out to them by upper classmen, they began their work as just another class. Soon, however, it became apparent that this class was to be a leader. Under the guidance of its president, the Class of '32 built one of the largest Home-coming day bonfires in the history of the school. It gave the most elaborate dance ever attempted by a freshman class. It sent out students who were among the best, and athletes who were among the most promising.

The highlight of the first year was the candy filching episode during the Soph-Frosh football classic. Freshman "Peewee" Watkins, diminutive young gallant, bravely strode up to the sophomore president, and posing as an enthusiastic spectator, grabbed the candy which the sophomores had bought for their team. A merry battle ensued, but as would be expected, the freshmen were conquered.

The sophomore year saw a sharp decrease in the class roster, with only twenty of the sophisticates returning. Undaunted by the lack of numerous comrades, however, this small group, under the guidance of Walter Beach, was able to guide itself over the chasms of error left in its way from the freshman year.

Athletes from the Class of '32 stood out in every department of sport. Bomba, Munoz, Rivas, Ransom, Farr, and Vance represented the class in football. Herron, Munoz, Burke, and Beach carried the class flag into basketball, and in baseball, Bomba, Rivas, and Beach again earned regular berths. In track and in all other forms of athletic activities, the class of '32 was well represented.

Members of the class likewise took active part in other activities. Ochoa, Raffaelli, Coover, Hosinski, and Munoz took part in dramatics. Raffaelli, Kasberg, and Beach sang in the choir. Other members of the class participated in intramural debating and went through the season undefeated.

Another decline in class membership in the junior year left the class only twenty members. But this small group, headed by Charles Trefflich, included some of the campus leaders in class work and in athletics. Six members of the class were elected to the University chapter of the Scholarship Societies of the South as a result of maintaining high scholastic averages. Bomba and Munoz were elected football co-captains, Herron captained the basketball squad, and Ochoa and Watkins were cheer leaders. Thus the class has consistently continued its leadership.

HISTORY OF THE UNDERCLASSES

SOPHOMORES

Before the Class of '33 bids its final adieu to its Alma Mater, the position of class historian will be a difficult one. Already the class has shown itself to be a pacemaker and has carved its name deep into the monument of the University's history.

From the group of over seventy freshmen who entered St. Edward's in September, 1929, one can pick, after these two years, some of the luminaries of the student body. Some of the leaders in campus affairs, both in scholastic work and in athletics, are among the Class of '33.

This class began its freshman year with an exhibition of real spirit. It originated the idea of pep rally programs prior to athletic contests. It sent its men into athletics and many of these, such as McLaughlin, Rodgers, E. Donohue, Kivlin, Rougeaux, Quebedeaux, Michel, and Wurtzinger, have shown exceptional ability and have made remarkable records.

In addition to men of athletic ability, this class has produced men of exceptional talent in other activities. Members of the class belong to the debate squad, dramatic club, choir, and numerous other organizations.

Each year the class has given a splendid dance. The sophomore cotillion of this year, held at the Country Club, was one of the outstanding social affairs of the year.

FRESHMEN

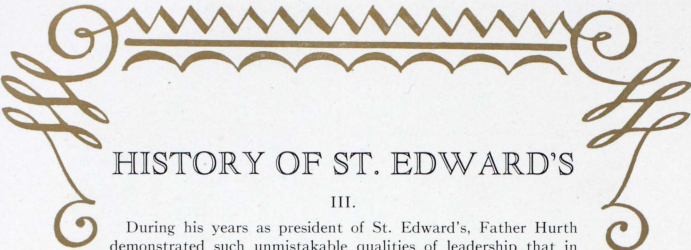

Last September, an expectant, conglomerated group of freshmen invaded the St. Edward's campus. They lost little time, however, in perfecting a close organization, and before long, members of that class were to be seen figuring prominently in all branches of student activities.

On the athletic field, the Class of '34 was represented by capable and versatile athletes. Coleman, Kezerle, J. Donohue, Cheatam, Muleske, and a number of others, showed great promise on the gridiron. In Muleske and Selmo the University basketball squad found two valuable men, and in track some of the best men were members of the Class of '34.

In dramatics and intramural debating, the freshmen established an enviable record. In social events the class showed a grace and a mien equal to that of many upperclassmen. The annual freshman dance, given in honor of the football team, was one of the biggest events of the social year.

But the Class of '34 has established itself not only in athletics and social activities. This group of zealous novices also took to scholastic pursuits eagerly and have won distinction in that field as well.

With such a start, the Class of '34 can see a brilliant future before it, and the next three years are expected to bring on an accelerated development.

HISTORY OF ST. EDWARD'S

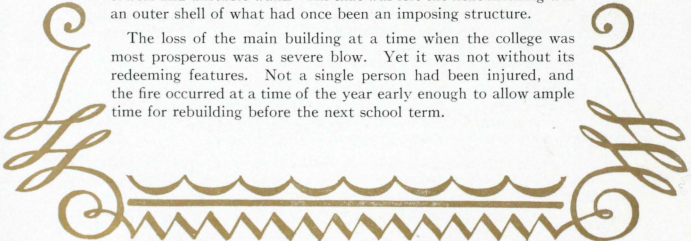

III.

During his years as president of St. Edward's, Father Hurth demonstrated such unmistakable qualities of leadership that in 1894 he was appointed by Rome as Bishop of Dacca, Bengal, India. Sixteen years later he was transferred to the See of Nuevo Segovia, Philippine Islands, where he served until his retirement in 1926. Upon his retirement he was elevated to the dignity of Titular Archbishop of Bostra. Before returning to Germany, his native land, in 1930, Archbishop Hurth spent a year at St. Edward's.

The Rev. E. P. Murphy followed Archbishop Hurth to the presidency in 1894. He was followed one year later by the Rev. P. P. Klein, C. S. C. Father Klein served in the president's capacity until 1898 when he was succeeded by the Rev. John T. Boland, C. S. C., who was to devote many years of his life to the advancement of the college.

The year 1903 will always be memorable in the annals of St. Edward's. During the supper hour on April 9 of that year, a mysterious fire started in the attic of the main building. When the flames had spent themselves, St. Edward's was a ruin, with toppling towers and unstable walls. All that was left the next morning was an outer shell of what had once been an imposing structure.

The loss of the main building at a time when the college was most prosperous was a severe blow. Yet it was not without its redeeming features. Not a single person had been injured, and the fire occurred at a time of the year early enough to allow ample time for rebuilding before the next school term.

Ruins of Administration Building.

Father Hurth distinguished himself so greatly as a Catholic leader that in 1894 he was appointed by Rome as Bishop of Dacca, Bengal, India, and was required to leave St. Edward's to take up his new duties. The college suffered a severe blow when, nine years later, a fire broke out that left of the beautiful building only toppling towers and unstable walls.

DRAMATICS AND FORENSICS

DRAMATICS

Three major productions, three one-act plays and participation in a dramatic tournament comprised the work of St. Edward's Dramatic Club during the past year. All of the productions were well staged and were enthusiastically received by the audiences. Great variety was also shown in the dramatic ability of the members of the Club since the character of the plays ranged from one-act comedies to the longer and more serious productions of Shakespeare.

The Thespians started off the season very successfully when they presented "David Garrick," one of the most famous of the early nineteenth century melodramas. It is written in three acts, and is considered one of Robinson's best works. The presentation of this drama was characterized by the splendid acting of Ochoa who took the title role. Miss Mary Faulk, as the self-willed and indulgent daughter, and Papich as Simon Ingot, the father, both displayed splendid ability in enacting difficult roles. Others who participated in this production and who did creditable work were Misses Edna Harper, and Pelham Elliott and Lucero, Foley, Dunstan, Turner, Harper and A. deHaro. Although this was the first production of the current year it was received with much praise. The participants showed that the training which they had received in previous years had not been forgotten during the summer months, and as a result, the performance was well presented.

Front row: ELLIOTT, CAIN, PAPICH, FATHER MAGUIRE, TURNER, FAULK, HARPER.

The Club scored its second success on December 15 when it presented three one-act plays entitled "The Fast Worker," "Mistress Caistlemaine," and "The Troubadour's Dream." The first of these plays was written by Rev. Joseph Maguire, C. S. C., the director of the Club. The play was a short comedy sketch with modern costumes and a modern plot. The second play carried the audience back to the time of the American Revolution, and though it contained some humor, was a play of the more serious type. "The Troubadour's Dream," however, was a fanciful sketch employing the double stage and portrayed in a romantic manner the story of Christmas. Munoz and Miss Bertha Cain took the leading roles in "The Fast Worker" while Miss Mary Faulk and Albert Turner co-starred in "The Troubadour's Dream." "Mistress Caistlemaine" contained no feminine roles, Raffaelli, Dunstan and Hoopes doing creditable work in that production.

The next presentation showed the Club going from the lighter Christmas plays and comedies to one of the oldest and most popular of the morality plays of the middle ages. The play was staged during the Lenten season which was apropos to the atmosphere of the play itself. William Ford in the title role of Everyman gave one of the most convincing performances of the year, with the aid of a well-trained supporting cast.

At the present writing the Club is preparing Shakespeare's comedy "Much Ado About Nothing" which is to be presented before Commencement.

A DRAMATIC SCENE FROM "DAVID GARRICK"

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATING

Under the able guidance of Coach Elmore Borchers, the St. Edward's debating teams enjoyed one of the most successful seasons in the history of the University, winning seven debates and losing only one.

The team swung into action by defeating Trinity on Feb. 19 by a two-to-one decision, Koegler and Carson defending the negative of the Free Trade question. On March 5, Koegler and Carson defeated Austin College in Sherman by a unanimous decision and duplicated the feat the next night against Simmons at Abilene. The next morning, the same team defeated McMurry at Abilene. Protection was defended by St. Edward's in all three debates.

On March 13, Koegler and Carson again won unanimously from Baylor University, defending the negative over radio station KUT. Southwestern was defeated by a two-to-one decision in the auditorium on March 18. Austin College, visiting the campus on March 26, received its second defeat at the hands of St. Edward's. Koegler and Sulak upheld the affirmative in both debates. The following night Koegler and Carson, defending the negative, failed to convince the judges, losing a two-to-one decision to Hendrix-Henderson of Arkansas at Our Lady of the Lake College in San Antonio.

In addition to the regularly scheduled debates, practice debates were held in which the other members of the squad participated.

This year ended an enviable record for Koegler and Sulak, each of whom has seen four years of active service as a debater.

Top row: KOEGLER, SULAK, G. STRAUSS, CARSON.

Bottom row: BORCHERS, F. ROBERTS, SPRINGER, R. DEHARO, FATHER FOIK.

INTRAMURAL DEBATING

For the first time in the history of St. Edward's, an intramural debate league was organized during the latter part of 1930, too late to receive recognition in last year's annual. The league was organized along class lines, and after several very interesting debates on the prohibition question, the Sophomore Class was declared winner.

Beach and Hosinski, representing the Sophomore Class, drew first blood by defeating Quebedeaux and Cowart, the Freshmen representatives. The Freshmen came back in the next debate, however, when Springer and Brown defeated E. Young and Hoopes, who represented the Juniors. Undaunted by their first defeat, Young and Hoopes rallied to win from Blanchette and Duran, who represented the hitherto undefeated Sophomores. The Sophomore defeat found all three participating classes tied for first place, and immediately two more contests were arranged to determine the championship. The Sophomores won the first of these contests by virtue of a forfeit by the Junior Class due to the illness of one of the third-year speakers. With one more contest standing between them and the championship, the Sophomore Class, represented this time by R. McDonough and J. Raffaelli, took a close fought contest from Springer and Quebedeaux, Freshmen debaters, by a two-to-one decision, and the Sophomores were declared champions.

Because of the enthusiasm created last year, the league was again organized but too late to receive recognition in this book.

Bottom row: R. McDONOUGH, J. RAFFAELLI, SPRINGER, BROWN.

ORATORY, EXTEMPORE SPEAKING

Following the precedent established in 1929, the St. Edward's Knights of Columbus in 1930 offered a beautiful silver loving cup for the best oration on some phase of Texas history. Eleven men participated in the contest which was won by Joseph Koegler, the title of his oration being "Fray Juan Padilla, Proto-Martyr of America and Texas." This was the second time that Koegler won the Knights of Columbus contest. The contest was sponsored again this year by the Knights and was won by Gus Strauss with an oration on "Preservation of Texas Identity."

As in previous years the Association of Former Students offered three cash prizes for the best extemporaneous speech made on any one of ten topics. On the night of the contest the speakers drew three topics from among the ten and then had the choice of speaking on either of the three picked. After two preliminary tryouts, six men contested in the finals for the prizes. Frank Carson, choosing for his subject "Prohibition Today," was awarded first place after Koegler, who had received the decision of the judges, was disqualified for not speaking on the subject he had chosen. Second place was awarded to Francis Roberts, and third place to John D. Raffaelli.

These contests were conducted to foster an interest in public speaking at St. Edward's and to give the students practice in actual platform speaking. The contest was again sponsored by the Association this year but came too late in the year to receive recognition in the Golden Jubilee Tower.

THE GOLDEN JUBILEE TOWER

Building around the history of St. Edward's, the staff has sought to make the Golden Jubilee Tower an outstanding annual, portraying at one and the same time the principal events in the life of the institution during the past fifty years and the events and activities of the year 1931.

Time, energy, and expense were not spared in trying to make this annual fulfill adequately its two-fold purpose. The artist's hand was summoned freely to depict the incidents of importance in St. Edward's history, and to reproduce the buildings which are worked into the theme. All of this was done at much cost, but it was done willingly in order that the Golden Jubilee Tower might be a permanent record of the first half century of existence of the leading Catholic university of the Southwest.

The development of the theme did not in any way interfere with the portrayal of the events of the present year. On the other hand, the touching and colorful history of St. Edward's has been an inspiration in making this yearbook the most complete and representative that has yet been published at the University. Within its covers will be found a record of cherished memories and beloved faces which, as the years pass on, will serve as an eternal bridge always connecting the present with the past, and thus keeping alive faces and incidents so fond to every student's heart.

The Golden Jubilee Tower was printed by The E. L. Steck Company of Austin. Service Engraving Company of San Antonio did the engraving and art work. The photography was handled principally by The Elliots of Austin.

TOWER EDITORIAL STAFF

Since the publication of the Golden Jubilee Tower was primarily a Senior project, members of the class, with one exception, constituted the annual staff. To the untiring efforts of these men is due whatever of success this yearbook might attain.

Due credit must be given to others not listed below as members of the staff. Eugene Sullivan, Harry and Joseph Harper, Steve Hvezdos, Charles Dorsey, and Henry Parma gave valuable service on the circulation committee. Louie Hoopes, while holding the position of feature editor, likewise gave indispensable assistance in soliciting advertising. Atlie Bertrand aided the art editor greatly in drawing sub-division page sketches and other art work. Several other students, especially Walter Beach, editor-elect of the Tower of '32, made contributions from time to time of their services.

To all of these, as well as to the staff in general, the editor takes this means of expressing grateful appreciation. With their close cooperation, the editing of this volume has been a pleasure.

ST. EDWARD'S ECHO

The St. Edward's Echo, student newspaper, is published bi-weekly during the school year by the Journalism students of the University. It not only serves as a medium of spreading University news over the state to parents and friends of the students, but also gives the students of Journalism practice in actually publishing a newspaper. In addition, the Echo publishes from time to time outstanding literary contributions of the students. About twelve hundred copies of each issue are printed.

During the month of May a supplement to the regular news edition, containing the outstanding philosophical essays of the year, was published by members of the Neo-Scholastic Society.

The staff this year took the initiative to publish a burlesque number. The first issue following April Fool's Day was named the Nonsense Number and contained many humorous articles on passing events and campus characters.

Members of the Journalism classes who aid in the publication of the Echo are: Reporters—Stavinoha, Weeks, Wurtzinger and Talerico; Copyreaders—Keller and Raffaelli.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES COUNCIL

As a medium of close connection between the student body and the faculty, the Student Activities Council accomplished many things during the past year. It sponsored student trips to Houston for the Rice football game and to Georgetown for the Southwestern game; it chose the four contestants for the Tower beauty contest; it supervised pep rallies and freshman programs; it handled all student dances in a highly satisfactory manner; it was instrumental in securing a new tennis court; and it obtained a number of minor conveniences and improvements on the campus.

The Council strived diligently to do what was expected of it by the faculty on the one hand and the student body on the other. In all of its achievements, it gives due credit to both for their close cooperation.

The intimate relation between the Council and student affairs is made possible by its unique organization. The president of each class is ipso facto a member. Moreover, because upper classmen are more likely to have a better understanding of campus affairs, the council is made up on four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman.

Due to the illness of Roland Blackwell, the president's chair was filled by the vice-president, John L. Sulak, during the greater part of the year.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

St. Edward's Council, Knights of Columbus, was granted its charter on December 14, 1924. Since that time it has grown and flourished until today it bears the distinction of being not only the livest organization on the campus, but also one of the most active councils in the state.

At each meeting the Lecturer presents interesting and entertaining programs during which refreshments and cigarettes are served. These programs do not consist of entertainment alone, but they also contain at frequent intervals addresses by prominent men upon various subjects.

The council also boasts a degree team which this year exemplified the first and second degrees in a joint initiation between Capital City Council and St. Edward's, and which, because of its inspiring work in that initiation, was invited to confer the first and second degrees at Yoakum.

As in previous years, St. Edward's Council has entered into the Daliet Trophy Contest sponsored by the Texas Knights of Columbus Historical Commission. For two years St. Edward's Council placed second, and the members are striving this year to be second to none. In this connection an oratorical contest and an essay contest were held and a beautiful loving cup and cash prize were awarded the winners. The Council also supports, as far as possible in a financial way, the Historical Commission, Students' Loan Fund, and Catholic Foundations, Inc.

(CONCLUDED)

Only one initiation was held this year, on February 7 and 8, at which the honors of the first, second and third degrees were conferred upon twelve students of the University. On May 1 a barn dance was given by the Council at Barton Springs, honoring the new initiates. It was generally conceded to be one of the best dances given by a campus organization during the current school year.

The Christmas season was aptly celebrated by a meeting at which Santa Claus visited the council chamber and presented a gift to each one present. The Council also sponsored a bridge party during the pre-Lenten season.

Due to the resignation of Grand Knight Edward J. Ott during the latter part of the year, Chancellor Joseph A. Koegler was elected to fill his unexpired term, and Harry L. Harper was elected Chancellor to succeed Koegler.

EL PASO CLUB

The El Paso Club came into being in November of 1930 when a group of students from El Paso and vicinity gathered together in Cottage No. 1 to discuss ways and means of fostering a closer union and establishing close friendships between the men from that section of the country.

At the first meeting, a committee was elected to draw up a plan of organization, and temporary officers were named. At the next meeting, Frank Herron was unanimously elected president, Luis Munoz vice-president, and Edward Coleman secretary. Al Turner was appointed publicity agent.

Members of the El Paso Club have taken part in almost every activity on the campus. Two of the Varsity captains, Herron and Munoz, are members of the Club. Coleman, Hambleton, and Rodriguez also entered athletics and are likely freshmen prospects for football and basketball. The cast of the one-act play, which represented St. Edward's at the intercollegiate play contest at Waco—Coover, Lucero, Munoz, and Turner—were Club members. Herron, Coleman, and Turner represented the Club on the Varsity track team.

In the intramural league, the El Paso Club entered a team in pass ball, the first of the competitive sports, and placed second in the first half of the season. In basketball, a team composed of Rodriguez, McGurn, Gemoets, Smith, and Turner turned in some fine playing, bowing to a single other team in one of the final games only after Rodriguez was forced out of the game because of sickness.

EL PASO CLUB

(CONCLUDED)

Two members of the El Paso Club are members of the Sorin Scholarship Society, the University honor organization, Coover a junior, and Turner a senior. Turner is also managing editor of the Echo, student newspaper. Coover is deputy grand knight of the St. Edward's Knights of Columbus.

One of the objects of the Club is to foster an interest in St. Edward's in and around El Paso and New Mexico. It is hoped by the members of the Club that they will be able to increase their membership materially in the future by bringing to St. Edward's additional students from that section.

The members of the Club are planning several entertainments in El Paso during the summer, to be given for the purpose of boosting St. Edward's. With the exception of Turner and Ford, all of the members live in that city. These men live in New Mexico and Arizona, and were included in the Club's membership by a special provision in the charter.

Next year, and in future years, the El Paso Club stands a splendid chance of becoming one of the strongest and most influential organizations on the St. Edward's campus.

SORIN SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY

The Sorin Scholarship Society is the local chapter of the Scholarship Societies of the South and has for its object the promotion of high scholarship among the students. The Society takes its name from the Rev. Edward F. Sorin, founder of both Notre Dame and St. Edward's.

Membership in the local chapter of the Society is by election from among the ranking tenth of the Junior and Senior classes of the University. Local chapter membership entitles one to all of the privileges of the parent Society. Besides student members, a faculty member is elected into the Society each year.

Because membership can be obtained only through high scholarship, election to the local chapter is considered one of the highest honors that can be conferred upon a student of the University. As is to be expected of a Society which makes scholarship its guiding rule, the local chapter counts among its members the leaders in almost every campus activity.

This year the Sorin Scholarship Society was represented at the convention of the Scholarship Societies of the South, held at Baylor-Belton, by Elmore Borchers, faculty representative.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club was organized in 1928 for the purpose of entertaining its members and helping them to acquire a facility in the use of the Spanish language. It is composed chiefly of Spanish speaking students, but all who have a conversational knowledge of the language are invited to join. These students, knit in a co-operative unit, partake in all campus activities.

Since its organization the club has enjoyed success in all of its undertakings. Last year it won the intramural athletic championship and this year was again a serious contender for this coveted honor.

This year, as in previous years, the organization commemorated May 5, Mexican Independence Day, with the traditional Mexican "Cinco de Mayo" observance, the members of the club being granted a special holiday for this purpose. The club meets regularly every second Sunday of the month after High Mass.

The Rev. P. Forrestal is Faculty Advisor of the club and much of its success and accomplishments are due to his untiring efforts.

NORTH TEXAS CLUB

The North Texas Club was founded in the autumn of 1928 for the two-fold purpose of furthering the interests of St. Edward's in North Texas and of creating a fraternal spirit among the boys from the northern part of the state. Due to the good spirit and close co-operation of its members, the Club met with immediate success. That it has fulfilled its purposes may be readily seen from its steadily increasing membership and its willing participation in all University activities.

The Club draws its membership from the northern part of the state marked off by a line drawn from Texarkana through Dallas, Fort Worth, and Lubbock to Amarillo. The constitution and By-laws of the organization, after they were approved by the S. A. C., formed the basis for forming other state clubs which were inspired to organize by the North Texans.

The North Texas Club, since the first year of its existence, has given an annual dance for the student body. The Club dance on December 17 on the roof garden of the Austin Hotel was one of the high spots on the St. Edward's social calendar. The Club is to be highly commended for the decorous manner in which it has handled all of its dances.

NORTH TEXAS CLUB

(CONCLUDED)

The Club has the distinction of being the only state club on the campus that regularly holds an initiation. This year the initiation was held during the first part of October at which time fifteen neophytes were inducted into the organization. Following the initiation the members were addressed by Father O'Brien and by representatives of other campus clubs.

In intramural activities the Club has always placed among the leaders. Although it has not won a trophy, it has entered representative teams in every intramural sport. At the time of this writing, the Club baseball team was rounding into shape and it seemed likely it would be a dangerous contender for the intramural baseball flag.

Although the beginning of each year finds fewer charter members of the Club on the campus, their places are ably filled by the larger number of recruits who carry on the work begun.

Present members hope that coming years will find the Club with the same indomitable energy, the same close co-operation, and the same fraternal spirit that it has displayed during the three years of its existence.

NEO-SCHOLASTIC SOCIETY

The Neo-Scholastic Society was founded in 1924 by Father Schumacher for the purpose of promoting discussion along philosophical lines. A paper written by some member of the society is read at each bi-weekly meeting.

This year the Society observed the feast day of St. Thomas Aquinas, its patron, in the traditional manner. Following Mass, a meeting was held at which the following papers were read: "Sources of Modern Psychology," by Lionel Smith; "Freedom of the Will," by Thomas Young; and "The Power of Suggestion," by Douglas Defferari. Following the discussion of these papers a banquet was held.

These and other outstanding papers were published in the April number of the Echo and gave a splendid exhibition of the work of the Society. Some of them were: "The Science and Theory of Psychotherapeutics," by Louie Hoopes; "Analogy," by H. Harper; and "Immortality of the Soul," by John D. Raffaelli.

Membership in the Society is limited to those students who take one or more courses in philosophy. The Rev. Dr. Cornelius Hagerty, instructor of philosophy, acts as moderator of the Society.

CENTRAL TEXAS CLUB

In order to further fulfill the purposes of the intramural league, the students from Central Texas this year followed the example of the other state clubs and organized. Because of the fact that there is as yet no West Texas Club on the campus the Central Texas Club includes a sizable portion of that section of the state also. Thirty-six students are at present on the Central Texas membership roll.

Considering that this is the first year of the Club's existence, it made a creditable showing in intramural sports. In touch football the Club took second place, but in intramural basketball they were not so fortunate. The Central Texans won their first game, but lost the following two by close scores. The second game was lost to the championship East Texans and the third to the El Paso Club. The Club was handicapped in the last game by the illness of several players. According to officers of the organization, it will be a serious contender in the baseball race this year and is expected to make a good showing in all intramural sports next year.

EAST TEXAS CLUB

The East Texas Club was organized in 1930 following the formation of other state clubs of a similar character. The Club at the present time boasts a membership of thirty-two, with every indication that it will have a larger membership next year.

Since its organization last year, the Club has had unusual success especially in athletics. During the first year of its existence, it won both the intramural basketball and the intramural baseball championships. Immediately after the intramural season began this year, the Club again went to work spurred on by last year's brilliant record. To start the season right, the East Texans were the only undefeated team in the intramural touch football league, this being the first year this sport has been participated in by all the clubs. Again repeating last year's success, the Club went through the basketball season without a defeat thereby winning that championship also. At this writing the Club was grooming a team for the baseball tournament.

FAVORITES

Selection of the favorites for the Golden Jubilee Tower was left, as far as possible, in the hands of the students themselves. The various methods employed were formulated by the Tower staff in order that the selections might truly represent the students' favorites.

The Most Exemplary Student was chosen by a committee of the Deans of the University. An innovation was made by this committee when it requested that traditional requirements be set aside and that it be given full liberty in making its selection. The choice for this high honor was Michael Thomas Young.

The Most Popular Student was selected by a vote of the student body. Each student was given the right to cast one vote for any Junior or Senior in the University. When the ballots were counted it was found that this high distinction had been given to Randolph G. Papich.

The Best All-Around Athlete was chosen by members of the Monogram Club, an organization composed only of students who have lettered in any recognized sport at St. Edward's. Each member was given one vote to cast for any Junior or Senior who had lettered in two sports and had maintained a scholastic average of at least seventy-five. The winner of this distinctive appellation was Henry A. Parma.

The Tower Beauty contest was started with the intention of selecting only one beauty. As the contest drew to a close, however, it was found that student opinion was so evenly divided that two beauties were recognized. In this contest, all students were permitted to enter pictures. From the large collection which was obtained, the Student Activities Council selected four. These were then voted upon by the student body with the result that the Tower Beauties are Miss Margaret McGinnis of Cisco and Miss Mary Bess Sawyer of Brownwood.

HISTORY OF ST. EDWARD'S

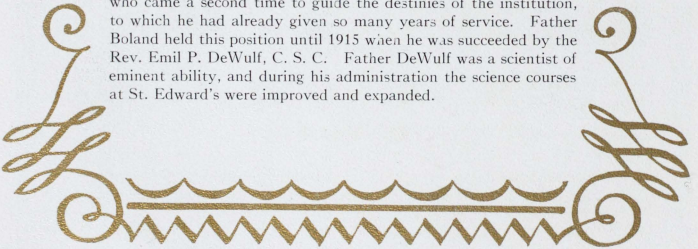

IV.

The loss of the main building was a severe blow. Still all was not lost. Trust in God remained and with it the courage to sustain and the energy to surmount every discouragement. While the ruins were yet smouldering, Father Boland announced to the public that St. Edward's would be rebuilt on a larger and better scale.

Two buildings were erected to take the place of the one destroyed. The main building was reconstructed and improved, and, in addition, a new dormitory was built. These two buildings are the present Administration Building and Holy Cross Hall.

Father Boland, under whose able hands St. Edward's had been restored, was succeeded to the presidency in 1907 by the Rev. Patrick J. Carroll, C. S. C. In the last year of his term as president, Father Carroll conducted the celebration of the silver jubilee of the founding of St. Edward's. Many former students from far and near came to praise the founder of the college. At this reunion of old students, an alumni organization was effected with Robert M. Hamby, '88, of Austin, as president.

In 1909 Father Carroll yielded the presidency to Father Boland, who came a second time to guide the destinies of the institution, to which he had already given so many years of service. Father Boland held this position until 1915 when he was succeeded by the Rev. Emil P. DeWulf, C. S. C. Father DeWulf was a scientist of eminent ability, and during his administration the science courses at St. Edward's were improved and expanded.

Undaunted by even such a catastrophe as the fire, Father Boland bravely set about to rebuild St. Edward's on a larger and better scale. In order to provide for the school's needs for years to come, he not only reconstructed and improved the Administration building, but, in addition, erected a spacious dormitory to be known as Holy Cross Hall.

COACH AL SARAFINY

FOOTBALL

Following a brilliant career as a player under Jack Meagher, Coach Al Sarafiny in 1929 was appointed to the position of head coach at St. Edward's. Since that time he has ably carried on the fine traditions of the "fighting Saints," giving St. Edward's teams that battled viciously and well, and invariably commanded the respect of their opponents.

During the past season, though handicapped greatly by injuries and the loss of men, Coach Sarafiny kept driving and turned out a great team. He has shown the same wonderful spirit as a coach that characterized him as one of the South's greatest linemen, the courage to face heavy odds and to fight until the last minute of the last game.

COACH CURLEY JAMES

COACH DAN HANNAN

BASKETBALL

Coach Julius (Curley) James, basketball coach at St. Edward's for the past two years, has done a great deal toward putting St. Edward's somewhere in the basketball world, as well as in creating in that sport a feeling of interest which did not exist prior to his assuming the duties of coach.

During the past two years Coach James has turned out basketball teams that have battled on even terms with the other conference teams, and he has developed some of the greatest individual stars in the Texas conference. During the past season the St. Edward's team, though its record of games won and lost is not impressive, showed its followers some great basketball, especially toward the last of the season, and Saint followers are looking forward expectantly to next year's team.

TRACK

Coach Dan Hannan, himself one of the greatest sprinters ever to represent St. Edward's on the cinder path, has in his two year's of track coaching given evidence of a knowledge of efficient coaching methods in that sport. The St. Edward's track teams, though not competing in more than three or four meets in a season, have done well in the Texas Conference meets, taking several places in the various events.

During the past season Coach Hannan has worked hard on the development of relay teams, and has paid particular attention to young men on the squad. He has developed some fine track men, but he gives them more than mere coaching on how to run; he teaches every man under his care true sportsmanship and self reliance.

THE FIGHTING SAINTS

The team that represented St. Edward's University on the football field in 1930 was not a winning team, but it was a fighting team—one that never gave up, and one of which every St. Edward's man should be proud.

Injuries hounded the squad from the first game until the last one, taking out of some of the games as many as four of the first string players. Hard luck and bad breaks accounted for at least two of the heart-breaking defeats suffered by the team. Almost every misfortune that could befall a team happened, but the team kept fighting. Winning or losing, it was the same story—fight, fight, fight, to win if you can, but to lose bravely if you can't.

"A team that never gave up, that took the breaks as they came, and that gave all it had all of the time—a team that I was proud to coach, and one that every St. Edward's student should be proud to have supported as they did." Thus does Head Coach Al Sarafiny sum up in a sentence what every student felt about the 1930 team. Next to winning games after a hard fight, the finest thing in the world is to lose games in such a way as to make your opponents respect and admire your fight.

ST. EDWARD'S 6—DANIEL BAKER 0

The 1930 season opened at Brownwood, on September 26, against Daniel Baker, one of St. Edward's oldest and most respected adversaries. The teams were evenly matched, and battled on even terms throughout most of the game. Both elevens were anxious to get away to a good start in the first game of the season, and from the first it was an aggressive battle, both teams putting out all of their strength to score first, and to prevent the other team from scoring. Dan Rivas, 140 pound first string center for St. Edward's, broke his nose on the first play of the game, and Harry Hambleton, playing his first game for St. Edward's, substituted for the rest of the fray.

CO-CAPTAIN BLACKWELL

The lone score of the contest came when Henry Parma, co-captain and lightning-fast halfback for the Saints, broke through from scrimmage and sped 70 yards behind effective interference for a touchdown. Bomba failed to kick the extra point, making the score 6-0. Daniel Baker gridsters opened up their bag of tricks after the Saint touchdown, but nothing that they had would work for the required yardage. Bomba's fine defensive play, coupled with the obstinate resistance in the line offered by Jack Caplis and Blackwell, held the Hill Billies scoreless.

ST. EDWARD'S 0—RICE 20

On October 4, Coach Al Sarafiny's determined crew invaded the nest of the Rice Owls, coached by four former St. Edward's men, Jack Meagher, Marvin Durrenberger, Louis Hertenberger, and John Neimic. Over 150 rooters accompanied the team to Houston, all set to see Rice go down under the Saints for a second consecutive time.

The game was played on a muddy field, and the rain continued throughout, failing, however to dampen the ardor of the crowd. The first half of the game was an even fight, with the grim Saint eleven trading blow for blow with the snappy, beautifully-suited Rice team. Bomba and Ransom in the backfield, and Rivas and Caplis in the line were outstanding in their defensive play, throwing the elusive Owl backs for losses or no gain several times. In the third quarter, Rice began to pour, literally pour, substitutes into the game. Caplis was taken from the game with an injured face. Bomba was exhausted from plowing through the mud. The new Rice backs crashed through and put across three touchdowns, making the score at the end of the game 20-0 for Rice.

ST. EDWARD'S 0—SIMMONS 0

The Simmons Cowboys came next on the schedule for the Saints. Simmons, presenting a fine team coached by Cranfil, an excellent coach, loomed as a stronger team than the battle-scarred and crippled Saints.

The game consisted mostly of midfield gaining by the Cowboys and spectacular goal line defensive play on the part of the Saints. Simmons broke through several times into the scoring zone, but there the white jerseys of the Catholic team stopped the advance. Simmons' defensive game was aimed at stopping Parma, who had run wild against them in former years, and they succeeded in holding the little speedster down to few gains. In doing so, however, they were so far spent as to be unable to get across a marker themselves, and the game ended a draw, 0-0, with Simmons out-gaining, out-punting, but not out-fighting, the Sarafinymen.

ST. EDWARD'S 19
SOUTHWESTERN 20

The Pirates from Georgetown scuttled the Saint ship to the tune of 20-19 in a night game played in Georgetown on October 17.

It was an exciting, almost purely offensive contest, with both teams making long, thrilling gains. The score at the half was 13-6, St. Edward's. In the third quarter Chester Allen, substitute quarterback for the Pirates, came into the game. It was the inspired playing of this diminutive signal caller that ruined the game for St. Edward's. He ran with the ball, passed it all over the field, and his bare head came dodging into Saint plays just as they opened up. The Saints were playing without Blackwell, Vance, and Caplis, all Varsity linemen—a guard, a tackle, and an end. The Pirates put over three touchdowns, making the score 20-13, with only minutes to play. Then Southwestern punted, and K. J. Kivlin took the ball on the run, reversed the field once or twice, and drug for home. He was unhindered, after passing the first few men, and crossed the line making the score 20-19, Southwestern. Failure to convert with a line plunge aided materially in ruining what might well have been a very nice day for the St. Edward's rooters.

ST. EDWARD'S 7
TRINITY 13

Led by Rusty Hill, all conference fullback, the Trinity Tigers defeated St. Edward's in the annual Homecoming game on October 25, 13-7.

The first half of the game seemed like a walk-away for the Saints, who had the ball in scoring position several times, though putting over only one touchdown. The first half was interesting as a battle between Bomba and Hill, both stars on their respective clubs. The big Saint back roundly outplayed his all-conference rival throughout the half, but Hill came back in the third quarter and played fine football. Late in the game, Hill shot a pass to Whipple, who took it on the sideline. He was called outside, but the pass was allowed. On the following play another pass put the ball on the four yard line, from where Hill plunged it over, to win 13-7.

ST. EDWARD'S 7—AUSTIN COLLEGE 7

St. Edward's tied Austin college at Sherman, on October 31, in a listless game. The one play furnishing excitement was Caplis' dash for a touchdown with a blocked kick. Austin college was outplayed, outfought, and outfought, but they made the same number of points as the Saints, ending the game in a clinch, 7-7.

at Brownwood, on November 7. The Yellow Jackets were led by Nig McCarver, one of the greatest running backs in the South, and they put across one touchdown for each quarter. Parma and Caplis, playing their last games for the Saints, turned in great games, as did Bomba, later named co-captain with Munoz of the 1931 team. The Howard Payne formula for scoring was to let Gibbs and Masur run the ball into position, then give it to McCarver, then block out a man, and mark down the points.

CAPTAIN BLACKWELL

A great athlete, a fine student, a thorough gentleman, and an inspiring leader was Roland Blackwell, line captain of the Saints for the past season. Blackwell was forced to withdraw from school early in the football season due to a protracted illness, which kept him out of school for the rest of the year. Besides being co-captain of the football team he was president of the senior class, president of the S. A. C., and a member of the debating team.

Our hats are off to the man who embodies in his life the ideals of St. Edward's, and who has been an inspiration to his classmates and teammates although he was hundreds of miles away and lying ill in bed.

Winning only two of their conference games, playing spasmodically, one night like a perfect machine and the next like a school boy club, the Saint basketballers of this season nevertheless placed one man on every All-Texas Conference team that was chosen, and they came nearer to defeating Simmons' conference winning team than did any other conference club.

Frank Herron, captain and star forward on this year's team, was heralded throughout the state as one of the most finished players in the South. He was unanimously elected to the All-Conference team, and his stellar playing contributed greatly to the several fine games that the team turned in. Luis Munoz, guard, was also mentioned on several of the All-Conference teams, and was one of the most efficient men in the conference in carrying the ball down the floor.

At the start of the season the St. Edward's crew looked good. It gave the Texas Longhorns a pair of hard tussles in practice games, dropping one of them 25-13 after a series of stalling exhibitions and long shots by Herron and Kivlin, and winning the other 46-41 by free scoring and reckless passing.

In the last game with the Longhorns the Saints looked like real conference contenders. Several of the new men began to show up, Selmo, Muleske, and Turnock showing much improvement over early season practices.

With conference competition the Saints suffered considerably. In a two-game series in Austin about the middle of the season, Coach James' outfit badly defeated Trinity, who was doped to win; and then lost to Austin College, a team reputed to be weaker than the Saints. It was the same thing for the rest of the season. In some games the boys would not give in and were spectacularly good. The next day they would lose fire and succumb to mediocre playing.

Against Simmons, easily the most powerful club in the conference, in one of the last games of the season, the Saints unleashed an attack embodying all of the pent-up fury of a disappointing season. The Cow-boys were surprised, then shocked, then frightened, and finally much relieved when the end of the game found them leading by a single point. This was the one game of the season in which every man played as he had never played before. Fighting to the last minute—aggressive, unhesitating, driving, playing recklessly yet scientifically—the Saints gave a grand basketball exhibition and redeemed themselves in the eyes of the student body.

This year's team was composed largely of new men. It was playing in a strain most of the season. Yet at the last of the season, when all of the men were getting into the groove that Coach James had groomed them for, the team looked like championship stuff. It was the old story of a late start and a slow pick-up. Next year, with Selmo, Herron, Munoz, Kivlin, Muleske, Wurtzinger, Michel, and Rodriguez all back, it will be a different tale.

Sullivan, former captain of the squad, is the only man to be lost by graduation. He has been a spectacular figure in conference basketball for four years and has become almost a legend in St. Edward's basketball history.

Bob Michel, consistent little forward on this year's team, was chosen to guide his teammates through the 1932 season. Michel is a good basketball player, but he is more than that. He is the typical leader of a championship team, and the sort of a captain men gladly play for—quiet, retiring, amazingly efficient on the basketball floor, and an inspiring leader. Under his guidance next year's team is bound to be a great crew.

Much credit is due Coach Curley James for his work with the basketball team this year. A student body does not support a losing team whatever idealists may say notwithstanding. A coach who keeps the morale of his team up, as Coach James did, and who inspires them in the last games of the season, when most losing teams are giving up, to make as magnificent a stand as did the Saints against Simmons, that coach deserves a world of credit.

TRACK

Building his team around five returning lettermen, with a group of promising new men, Coach Dan Hannan produced a 1931 track and field team that was one of the best balanced units ever to represent the University.

Captain Pat McLaughlin, winner of the 440 dash in the conference meet last year, and one of the most versatile athletes on the campus, has been out of competition practically the entire season due to injuries. He pulled a muscle in hurdle practice early in the year, and has been out of competition except in the javelin and high jump, events which he can try without undue strain. The loss of McLaughlin was a decided blow to the team as he was depended on in the hurdles, the dashes, and as anchor man in the one mile relay.

In the one dual meet in which the team participated prior to this writing the Saints were nosed out 61-56 by the Southwestern Pirates. The meet was in question until the final race, the mile relay, won by Southwestern's conference championship team.

Of the men who showed signs of excellence in this and in practice meets at the Memorial Stadium, much can be said of Herron, Rogers, Coleman, Parma, Bayes, Kezerle, and Titus.

HERRON

GETTING OFF TO A FAST START

TRACK

Herron, who was barely beaten out in the pole vault at the conference meet last year, has tied the record in practice, and should be a threat this year. Rodgers, the fastest man on the club, runs the century, the 220 yard dash, and the relay. He is adept at any of the distances and was a place winner in last year's conference meet. Parma has burned up competition in the low hurdles. Bayes and Coleman, new men at St. Edward's, have done the best work in the mile and two mile that has been done at St. Edward's in recent years. Both were easy winners of their events against Southwestern. Kezerle, another newcomer, is a weight man who lacks somewhat in form, but is superbly strong and gets distance with the shot and discus.

Titus, a half-miler, is of the slow developing type of runner who is rounding out and should do great work in the next two years. Pat Canion, also a member of last year's squad, is Rodgers' running mate in the dashes. He is fast, but has been unfortunate so far this season. He was just over an illness at the Southwestern meet and was unable to get in his best work.

TENNIS

Able to devote more time to practice by the addition of a new court, the tennis squad rounded into form early and enjoyed a successful season, losing only once in four starts.

The season was opened against Howard Payne, but the meet was halted by rain with the score in matches tied. The Saints then lost a meet to Southwest Texas Teacher's College, four matches to two. Both of these matches were held on the home courts. In their third meet, the Saints were able for the first time in three years to defeat Southwestern on the Pirates' own courts. This time they did it thoroughly, winning five matches to one. In a return match, however, the Pirates, out for revenge, gained a tie meet with the Saints, with three matches each. A return match is to be played.

Captain Paul Mesquita and Jack Demack have won four successive victories in the doubles matches. So far they appear to be a big threat for the conference title. John Raffaelli, Emile Poujol, and Anthony and Raphael deHaro make up the rest of the regular team. They will probably represent St. Edward's at the conference meet in Brownwood, on May 7 and 8.

Prospects for a fine team next year are bright as all the present team will be back. Raffaelli, senior member of the team, is only a junior.

INTRAMURALS

Intramurals at St. Edward's this year have furnished much healthful recreation and exercise to students who were not able to take part in Varsity sports. Under the guidance of the intramural board, composed of representatives from the various clubs, with Randolph Papich as student director and Father MacNamara as faculty advisor, contests in touch football, basketball, and baseball aroused much interest about the campus and many students took part in the contests.

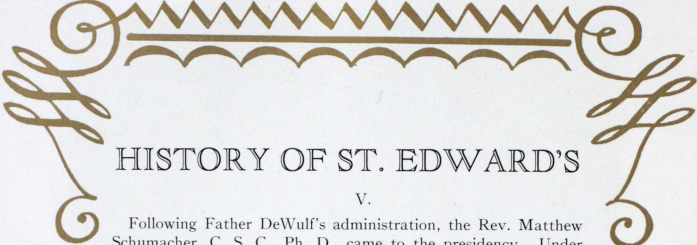

PAPICH
 Student Director

The East Texas Club was undefeated in both the incompleated touch football league and the basketball tournament, thereby winning the intramural championship, unless another club wins the yet incomplete swimming and baseball competition. In such event the teams will be tied.

Intramurals fill a real want in undergraduate life by giving recreation to the men who would otherwise have difficulty in getting into competition. A great deal of interest was shown especially in touch football, which was an innovation at St. Edward's. Many of the games were close and hard fought.

The swimming meet is also a new event on the intramural calendar. Much interest has been shown in it, and with the amount of talent available, the aquatic meet should prove to be one of the big events in intramural competition. Almost every organization on the campus has entered a team.

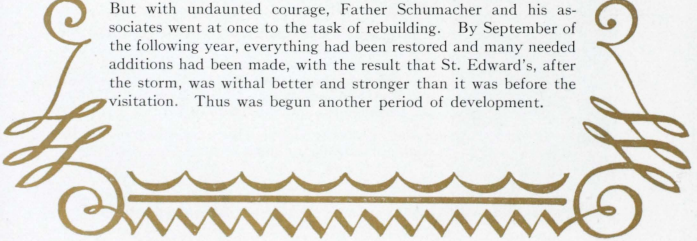

HISTORY OF ST. EDWARD'S

V.

Following Father DeWulf's administration, the Rev. Matthew Schumacher, C. S. C., Ph. D., came to the presidency. Under his able guidance, St. Edward's continued its steady growth. Perhaps the most important feature of Father Schumacher's work was the introduction of college courses into the curriculum. Although chartered to confer degrees, St. Edward's had never attempted to educate beyond the high school grades. In September of 1921, the first college freshmen were enrolled, and four years later degrees were conferred on a class of twelve.

May 4, 1922, marks the coming of a second disaster to St. Edward's. In the afternoon of that day, a tornado visited Austin and, within the brief period of five minutes, swept away the fourth and part of the third floors of Holy Cross Hall, damaged the Administration Building, and demolished the gymnasium, natatorium, and power house. It seemed miraculous that in this catastrophe only one person, Andrew F. McGrory, a student from Port Arthur, Texas, was killed and only a few others were slightly injured. This tragedy caused great sorrow among both faculty and students.

Thus St. Edward's had to bear up under a second great trial. But with undaunted courage, Father Schumacher and his associates went at once to the task of rebuilding. By September of the following year, everything had been restored and many needed additions had been made, with the result that St. Edward's, after the storm, was withal better and stronger than it was before the visitation. Thus was begun another period of development.

Preparatory

Ruins of Holy Cross Hall

Under the progressive administration of Father Schumacher, college courses were introduced into the curriculum, and in 1925 the first college students received degrees. Happiness prevailed, but there still lingered in the memory of all a day only two years before when a cyclone had taken the life of one of the students, and had lain waste to Holy Cross Hall.

THE PREPARATORY SCHOOL

The Preparatory School of the University is on the list of accredited schools of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States. It is fully equipped and is accredited also by the State Department of Education. Its courses are based on the entrance requirements of the first-class universities of the country. For those who cannot complete a collegiate course, the courses offered furnish a desirable preparation for professional or business life.

The aim of the Preparatory School, like that of the University itself, is to give the students a thorough education, to form a well-balanced mind in a sound body. Moral training is recognized as an essential element in education and, therefore, while striving to give the youth entrusted to its care the finest mental culture, it spares no effort to form in them habits of virtue—right thinking and right living.

One of the distinct advantages that the Preparatory School enjoys over other kinds of schools is that all of its professors are men, and many of them members of the Congregation of Holy Cross, an order whose principal aim is education. They have received special training for their work and most of them have had years of experience in teaching and dealing with boys. They live in constant contact with the boys and understand and sympathize with their interests and ambitions. So friendly is this association that it has caused noted educators to remark that they have never before seen such a pronounced family spirit.

Students of the Preparatory School enjoy abundant and varied recreations. The extensive grounds of the school offer ample space for all kinds of sports and athletic games, so necessary to the health and happiness of boys who are confined during the greater part of the day to class rooms and study halls. Among the sports in which the students take part are football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, and handball. In addition, the swimming pool is at their disposal, and during inclement days recreation rooms afford many forms of innocent amusement and recreation.

Until 1925 the Preparatory School was the principal part of St. Edward's. But even since the addition of the University, the high school department has continued to receive the same careful attention and has continued to perform the same invaluable service that it did in previous years.

SENIORS

For four years a group of ambitious young men have turned covetous eyes toward a diploma which was to signify successful completion of their Preparatory School work. Today these self-same young men stand on the threshold of graduation with the diplomas almost within their grasp. They are proud of their accomplishments and they have a right to be, for theirs has been an eventful four years, filled with ardent studies, varied activities, and numerous experiences.

Under the leadership of President Pat Butler, Vice-President Ernest Meyer, and Secretary-Treasurer Harvey Hoelscher, the Class of '31 has made its influence felt in almost every field of endeavor. In studies outstanding were Fred Galo, who was chosen Valedictorian, and Arthur Endres and Lionel Guerra, who have maintained exceptionally high averages.

In athletics the Senior Class has been outstanding. In Behle, Butler, Galo, Raul Guerra, Harrison, Hoelscher, Knopp, Major, and Meyer, the Class had athletic ability which was largely responsible for the success of the football season. Raul Guerra and Hoelscher showed themselves to be equally at home on the basketball floor, and represented the Class in that sport. The baseball team saw the services of Butler, Raul Guerra, Harrison, Hoelscher, and Knopp, all of whom were important factors in the record made in that form of athletic activity.

Top row: HARVEY HOELSCHER, Ballinger; LEONARD IRVIN, Houston; LOUIS KNOPP, Fredricksburg; FRED MAJOR, Mishawaka, Indiana.

SENIORS

The Class has also produced some orators of ability. A number of the students entered the competition for the gold watch awarded annually to a member of the graduating class, and Butler, Endres, and Harrison entered the finals. One of these men will receive the award.

In spite of the numerous activities in which members of this Class participated, the social side was not neglected. The North Texas Club claimed the membership of Behle, Butler, Cone, and Endres, while the East Texas Club had upon its roll Harrison and Robertson. The Central Texas Club boasted Hoelscher, and the Spanish Club Lionel and Raul Guerra, and Villerreal. These, and other students who did not hold membership in any campus organization, ably represented the Class in all social affairs.

For the members of the Senior Class, high school days are over, but the real struggle is only beginning. Some will enter college to continue their studies; others will enter at once into the important business of making a living. Whatever may be their lots, the members of the Class can look back over their years at St. Edward's with many happy memories and with a satisfaction of knowing that they have done a hard task well. Judging from their records, the future holds much in store for the members of the Class of '31. Those who continue to be guided by the high ideals and principles acquired at St. Edwards will reap the reward of success.

JUNIORS-SOPHOMORES

For three and two years respectively the members of the Junior and Senior Class have played important roles in the drama of school life at St. Edward's. Following precedents established when they first began their Preparatory School work, the members of these Classes have continued to participate in campus activities of all kinds. Representatives of both Classes have had important parts to play in the success of the football, basketball, and baseball seasons, while at the same time they have likewise established themselves as proficient students.

The school year is now rapidly fading into the past. Diplomas and graduation are visions which daily are assuming greater clarity for Juniors and Sophomores alike. It may well be expected that members of these Classes, by facing the arduous tasks of the coming years in the commendable manner in which they have faced the first years of their academic life, will find only too soon that those fond visions will have become realities.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

Gathered together from many parts of the country, the members of the Freshman Class set about early in the year to make a place for themselves in the affairs of the school and campus. They made their entrance into the Preparatory School hesitantly, but in a surprisingly short time traces of shyness and hesitancy wore off, and the Freshmen abandoned themselves to the ways of boarding school life. As their first year draws to a close, members of the class may be seen going to classes and strolling about the campus with the ease and complacency of upperclassmen.

The Freshmen year for the members of this class is now a thing of the past. They can look back to their many new experiences—many happy, some sad—with the satisfaction of knowing that the experiences are now only memories. The class with the latent abilities of this year's Freshmen is a class that can look to the future with the expectation of producing men who are to be leaders in all campus affairs.

Prep football practice sessions began on September 20, under the guidance of Coaches Father Baldwin and Reuben Sliva. Out of the twenty-five aspirants the two mentors soon shaped a smooth little aggregation, strong on the defense but a little uncertain on the offense.

The only man of last year's backfield regulars was Freddie Galo. There soon appeared, during the first weeks of practice, a pair of backs who were destined to carry the brunt of the burden for the season. "Dutch" Leonard and "Red" Groves were the most consistent ground gainers on the squad. "Red" showed good generalship at the quarterback position, and "Dutch" was probably one of the fastest prep backs in many years.

In the line, the coaches again faced the task of starting mostly with new material. Many new men reported for line duty, and as the season progressed it became apparent that some very good blockers and tacklers had been developed. Garrett, Mulcaire, Hoelscher, and Butler were some of the linemen whose fight and drive put them in good stead against some of their heavier opponents.

Of the six games on the schedule, the Saintlets won three and lost as many. Buda High School, Round Rock High School, and St. Anthony's Seminary tasted defeat at the hands of the Preps. Granger High School, San Marcos Baptist Academy, and St. Anthony's were the three before whom the Saints bowed.

BASKETBALL

The interest in Prep basketball can be seen from the fact that twenty men reported to Coach Edward Foley for the first practice session. The Preps were slow in rounding into form, but once they were in form, they displayed a brand of first class basketball.

Too much credit cannot be given to the prep coach, Ed Foley, who exhibited good basketball sense in selecting men for the various positions.

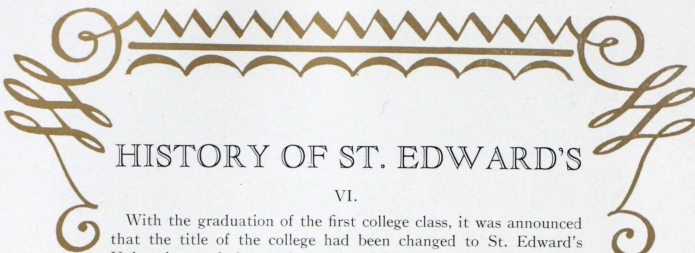

Captain Lenoard was easily the outstanding player of the team, his uncanny eye for the basket and deceptive dribbling causing opponents no end of trouble. He was ably assisted by Pratt, O'Brien, Guerra and Milby.

Although a guard, Captain Leonard was high point man for the season. Milby aided Leonard greatly and made possible the high score that the little guard ran up. Milby had a peculiar crip shot which proved of great advantage to the Preps. O'Brien at the other forward position and Pratt at center did good work all season, and Guerra was a tower of strength at the back guard position. Leyendecker, Hoelscher, Levy, Robertson, Rasperry, and Riley also aided materially in the success of the team.

The Preps defeated Shiner at St. Edward's and soon afterwards invaded the enemy's territory and again were victorious. They also defeated Lockhart, won two games from Austin High School reserves, lost to Taylor and Wesley Junior College, and split even with the Georgetown Eagles.

The season as a whole was one of the best that a Prep team has enjoyed for several years.

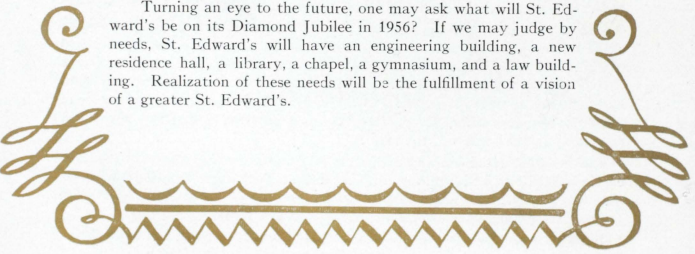

HISTORY OF ST. EDWARD'S

VI.

With the graduation of the first college class, it was announced that the title of the college had been changed to St. Edward's University, and that a charter had been obtained from the state giving St. Edward's additional powers and greatly enlarging its scope. The next year, 1925, the Rev. Joseph Burke, C. S. C., Ph. D., became the first president of St. Edward's University. During his administration, St. Edward's has seen steady growth and advancement. New courses have been added to the curriculum yearly, and the year 1931 has witnessed the organization of the College of Science. The enrollment, too, has shown such a steady increase that in 1929 and 1930, eight new cottages were built as temporary quarters, and this year work has begun on the enlargement of Holy Cross Hall.

Fifty years have passed since the founding of St. Edward's, and plans have been laid for an adequate celebration of the Golden Jubilee. A full three-day program has been prepared which consists of a field Mass, a banquet, a dance, and many other interesting features. Besides several dignitaries of the Church and a number of prominent laymen, a large number of former students is expected to be present on this auspicious occasion.

Turning an eye to the future, one may ask what will St. Edward's be on its Diamond Jubilee in 1956? If we may judge by needs, St. Edward's will have an engineering building, a new residence hall, a library, a chapel, a gymnasium, and a law building. Realization of these needs will be the fulfillment of a vision of a greater St. Edward's.

St. Edward's of the Future

The year 1931 sees St. Edward's bringing to a successful close fifty years of invaluable service, and former students from far and near plan to celebrate the Golden Jubilee of which a field Mass is only one feature. The Tower, aided by Father Burke and Father Lange, portrays a fond vision of St. Edward's University on its Diamond Jubilee in 1956.

A FEW CHOICE MORSELS From Dumb Data

Big Louie Munoz, grid captain, opera singer de luxe and stealer of hearts, has finally taken up dancing in a big way. Not having any lady with whom to practice, he chose Pee Wee Watkins, much to the latter's discomfort and to the former's edification. Sort of substituting the sunflower for the violet.

"Much Ado About Nothing" took on the aspects of a tragedy when Benedick, in rehearsals, began to beat about the bush instead of giving Beatrice the squeeze that the script called for. Raffaelli, acting Benedick, must have been grateful for that coat of tan that kept his crimson blush from showing through. Tsk! Tsk!

"He has a gorgeous face, but when he starts away I can't tell whether he's walking or rolling." Such was the description of the Weasel we have from one of his girl constituents.

FOR NEARLY TWO-THIRDS OF THE EARTH'S INHABITANTS

The consumption of Rice in the United States is only about 5 1/2 lbs. per capita per annum.

One pound of Rice is sufficient for a full meal for five persons.

Cut your living expenses by making
Rice a portion of your daily meal.

Rice digests in one hour.

Wheat Bread about 3 1/2 hours.

Irish Potatoes 3 1/2 hours.

Corn Bread 3 1/4 hours.

THE WORK IS FINISHED

¶ The task is over, but only for today ¶
Tomorrow will bring forth new work ¶

Here is the fruit of toil. Into this work is woven the moments of many hours and here is fashioned the labor and hearts of many. It has been work inspired by the hope that because of it some good will come. If this can be, what matters it if time meant for rest has been spent for labor—where is the loss if hours have been taken from the night to lengthen the day?

All service and all achievement, great or small, demands some sacrifice. Work must precede realization, and the love of work is the greater part of compensation. By comparison, no work is perfect. Today's efforts are better than the past, and the toil of Tomorrow will excel the task of the hour—but none have been, nor will ever be, more engaging. This work has indeed been pleasant to those who brought it into being, and it has been our pleasure to work with them.

INTERESTING NOTES

From Philosophy Class Discussions

Port Arthur, Beaumont and Galveston are suburbs of Houston.

Elias may be in Heaven with his body, but if he is, he must be awfully hungry about this time.

It is better to have syndersis and eutre-pelia than not have them, regardless of personal opinion to the contrary.

Jesse Brammer is a good man about twice a month, and for the rest of the time he is - - - .

Ed Young is a singer even when he is not singing.

Men cannot think as well when they are comfortable as when they are half-frozen.

It is totally un-Christian to allow an innocent freshman to be duped into an engineering course; he should be allowed to exercise his gnome and syndersis so that he will take an arts course.

Scientists and others who specialize are inclined to believe that their subject is really the only one worth knowing. Besides, specialization makes one narrow.

NIGHT CHECK OF HOLY CROSS HALL

ROOM 2: Vollmer crying because he couldn't get a date, while deHaro tried to cheer him up by telling him the secret of his (deHaro's) success. Henkel was indifferent.

ROOM 3: "Tubby" was still asleep. John D. was cutting Charley Trefflich's throat in "Dumb Data."

ROOM 4: Parma was lying to Eddie again. Johnny gave us a high sign we interpreted to mean "get out before it gets too deep," so we left.

ROOM 5: Jesse was out again as usual. Pete was gazing in rapt adoration at a picture of Polly Moran on the wall.

ROOM 6: Caplis was out fixing a flat. Bomba was wading through a dozen pages of sugar from Wolf.

ROOM 7: Found Jesse telling Macatee how to conduct a love affair. Ed Young was twisting radio dials in a vain effort to drown out "Mike," and thus attempting to preserve his roomy's innocence.

ROOM 8: Carson was grieving over his lost love, Kiener. Defferari was dreaming about lost portables.

ROOM 9: Snap swelling with pride because of his literary efforts. Charley rushed out in a frenzied effort to wire Dorothy Dix before she closed her office.

ROOM 20: Donovan hunting bugs for his collection and Mesquita reading a book of questionable repute over Demack's shoulder.

ROOM 21: Al Blevins blushed very prettily when discovered reading a book entitled, "How to Become A Successful Gigilo."

ROOM 22: Murphy was putting on his tie to play bridge with the Professor. McElroy was helping Kivlin write his daily letter to Owl Eyes.

ROOM 23: Slue Robinson giving Koch lessons in Chevrolet salesmanship, but was thinking about "Buddy" Macatee and not paying much attention.

ROOM 24: Had to leave. Turner shouldn't tell freshmen such tales.

ROOM 25: Stavinoha and Kelley. Just about enough said.

ROOM 26: Polansky and Kocurek surprised everybody by spending a quiet evening at home.

ROOM 28: Everyone out again.

ROOM 0: Vance practicing climbing so as to be able to get his share of senior ball decorations. Titus continued his physical culture.

ROOM 30: Seifert telling White just how it feels to be in love.

ROOM 31: School kindergarden. Didn't disturb the babes.

ROOM 32: Very dull.

ROOM 33: O'Rourke and Watkins entertaining the study hall. DeHaro behind a trunk in a vain effort to dodge Collector Ed Young.

NIGHT CHECK OF HOLY CROSS HALL

(Concluded)

ROOM 34: Unusual amount of noise, but only Mulligan trying to sing Stiles to sleep.

ROOM 35: Keton wondering where the next gallon of gas was coming from, and Weeks getting ready for his regular trip out West 9th St.

ROOM 36: Last report was that Riley was busy on a new petition for the betterment of . . . Wilbur Riley.

ROOM 37: Shea waiting for the big Cadalac and Higgins giving him a few last words of advice.

ROOM 38: C. P. A. Ransom was instructing D. P. A. Rivas on the method of dissolving a partnership into an individual proprietorship. Bob was writing to "Honey" again.

ROOM 39: Harry Harper reading a book on how to develop one's personality. Joe and Rothrock on the bed debating marriage.

ROOM 40: Gorging themselves again.

ROOM 42: Linn writing his girls (form letter 23) and Bill Garrett trying to find someone willing to debate birth-control.

ROOM 43: Garret chewing Brown Mule and Harrison dodging same.

ROOM 44: Ford and Smith . . . no scandal here.

ROOM 45: Toups taking violent exercise in an easy chair to reduce as Brady looks upon the operation in apparent disgust.

ROOM 46: Just two babes in the woods.

ROOM 48: Thinking of some way to get a suck with the mail man.

ROOM 50: Discussing the eccentricities of Model T Fords.

ROOM 51: Playing with their toys again.

ROOM 52: Muleske boosting Talerico into bed.

ROOM 53: Milby writing another love letter. McElroy trying to gather enough energy to take another breath before he choked to death.

ROOM 54: Afferbach and Hoelscher froze us out.

ROOM 55: Meyer—Eckert—Leyendecker. Too much said already.

ROOM 56: Coffey and Mistrot planning another party.

ROOM 57: Bill Lee teaching Mazoch how to loaf.

ROOM 58: Drown, Kennedy, and Behle discussing their escapades. No place for us here.

ROOM 60: Hambleton, Gates, and Rodriguez. A fitting conclusion to this check.

NIGHT CHECK OF THE SHACKS

SHACK 1: Wurtzinger clinking out a story about the "promising prospects for next year's Varsity." Pitre mouthing 12-guage words about some high-powered operation. Little Albie Bertrand smoothing out the curves on a dizzy damsel—on his drawing board. Quebedeaux, "gone to see Rosie," sez Pitre.

SHACK 2: Coleman changing underwear and describing at the same time with gestures how the ideal track man should run the two-mile dash. Munoz reaching for high "C" but getting a flat "G" below the line. Herron racking his brain for something new to tell his better three-quarters in Los Angeles. Turner moaning about the cruelty of journalism pros, and trying to write a "heavy" story to the accompaniment of Munoz's singing.

SHACK 3: Kezerle taking a dip of snuff. (He offered the night checker one, and being a timid person, the checker took it. The remaining shacks were checked by the assistant checker.) McCloskey mooning at somebody's picture. Selmo trying to think of a bigger insult than the one McDonald had just plastered all over him.

SHACK 4: Keller reading the Wester Union Manual. Jimmie Strauss (censored) just back from Hallettsville. Eichenroht rubbing powder on the back of his sunburned neck. Joe Finger looking thoughtful and sad probably over the prospect of a summer away from his old pal, Wurtzinger.

SHACK 5: Father MacNamara tapping out a letter. We didn't stay long, because the letter might have been something connected with the department of discipline. Heaven help 'em!

SHACK 6: Rougeaux puzzling out Oscar Wilde's intentions in "De Profundis," thereby making himself an object of some awe and reverence. Pat McLaughlin stretched out over two beds taking his pre-ten o'clock snooze. Rogers checking through his latest batch of fan mail and assorting letters he will answer in person. Finger wishing his legs would "get well" so that he could run in the conference meet. Cleo Rogers snoozing on McLaughlin's shirt, apparantly at peace with the world—until Pat awakens.

SHACK 7: Editor Sulak pasting goofy pictures of seniors in caps and gowns on panels, spasmodically using forceful language. Papich preparing for the nightly excursion in quest of eats and entertainment. Koegler racking what's left of a brain on K. of C. business. Poor ole Bill Donohue meekly reading about some non-intelligible experiment conducted in an unpronounceable university to find some silly reaction to a . . . well, you wouldn't understand. Bill was studying!

SHACK 8: Curley was arguing with Sarafiny about football, but shifted the argument to handball when the night checker came in. Sarafiny won the argument by threatening to go out then and there to prove his point. Hannan gurgling with delight over some story book. Yes, SOME story book!

THE END

A year has passed since the staff of the Golden Jubilee Tower first turned its thoughts to the problems of annual building. During that time there has been much planning, revising and working. Now the last picture is off to the engravers, the last sheet of copy is at the printers, and everyone is awaiting the arrival of the yearbook.

The staff has ever kept before it the two-fold purpose of building an annual that would be truly representative of University life, and also one that would be a fitting tribute to and a remembrance of the Golden Jubilee. To carry out this purpose the staff has sacrificed countless hours at work and worry, has given up enviable high grades, and has been forced to steer clear of other activities which might have spelled accomplishment.

As we look over the pages of this volume, we find places which might have been improved, we find things which, had we the task to do over again, we would have done differently. It would be impossible now, however, to make a change, and we must present the book to you as it is. If it pleases, then we shall be adequately repaid for all of our sacrifices. We are proud of the book ourselves and earnestly hope that you shall be also.

It is quite natural that since we are only human, we have made mistakes in this book. If your name has been mis-spelled, your picture put in the wrong section or left out, if you have been offended by anything said within this volume, we humbly apologize. These mistakes of commission or omission were the result of multitudinous duties and human fallibility; at no time were they the result of bad intentions.

With joy in our hearts at the thought that we are almost through, we ask you to accept this book, fellow students, as the product of our best efforts.

—The Staff.
